About the Conference

The 8th MUCLA National Conference explores the evolving role of libraries in the technological era through the theme “Next Generation Libraries: Exploring Emerging Trends and Technologies”. It aims to explore the transformative impact of technology on library services and their role in fostering knowledge accessibility and innovation. It seeks to provide a platform for librarians, teachers and researchers, to share insights and experiences on the evolution of libraries from traditional to modern, technology-driven knowledge hubs. Additionally, it aims to seek to inspire collaboration, promote cutting-edge research, and chart a progressive roadmap for libraries in the digital age.

The evolution of libraries has been intricately tied to technological advancements, making them dynamic hubs of knowledge and innovation. The advent of computers marked a turning point, with the digitization of catalogs, resources, and archives, enabling libraries to cater to wider users. In the present day, libraries are leveraging technologies such as Artificial Intelligence (AI), block chain, and data analytics to provide personalized services and secure access to information. Digital libraries and cloud-based systems have transcended physical boundaries, allowing users to access resources from anywhere in the world. Virtual and Augmented Reality (VR/AR) are being employed for immersive learning experiences, while IoT-enabled devices are streamlining operations like inventory and user engagement. Looking to the future, libraries are poised to adopt advanced AI for predictive analytics, augmented user interfaces, and smart knowledge curation. The conference will serve as a crucible for ideas, experiences and strategies fostering a understanding of the challenges and opportunities of this emerging technologies.
